1.1.15
a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant
Theodore Cottingham, May 19, 2003
www.newcovenant.me

1. I love you. I have so much for you. Be not troubled. Be not disappointed in those who don't understand. They are Mine and I will repay them for all the love and kindness they show Me. I am Me and I am thine and we have given ourselves to each other. Think it not strange that some don't understand, many will not understand, but its validity changes not on what they think or accept.

2. I am Me and I have given Myself to you for you have given yourself to Me. Now go and grow and do all the things I've told you and be not dreary or weary in well doing, doing what I've given you to do. Explain and receive questions gladly from the seeking heart, any seeking heart. And be not bewildered by those who accept you—what I'm doing with you, and what I'm not doing with you. Be not bewildered by those who don't accept you and the things you say of Me and say are of Me.

3. I will deal with them when they are ready. I will answer their questions when they ask, when they truly ask of Me. I am patient. I am kind. I am loving. I am love. I am that I am.